

PORTFOLIO CENTER

MISSION STATEMENT

Creating bodies of work is fundamental to an education in arts and media and to beginning a career in a creative field. Editing and assembling individual works into formal presentations has long been an expectation in many disciplines and is rapidly becoming one in many others. A body of work/portfolio is recognized as a frank and direct measure of accomplishment and of an individual's potential to work creatively.

The Portfolio Center has designed several strategies to help students document, package, and present the final body of work developed in their major/medium. These strategies draw on the expertise of creative industry communities and are executed in collaboration with faculty. Our objective is to provide programs and services that enable students to exit the college with a portfolio presentation, in whatever media, that is produced at a professional level, is targeted and relevant to a specific audience, and has been reviewed by established professionals.
